

POST ANESTHESIA CARE

This one-day course is designed for nurses who care for patients in the immediate post-operative period. The content will emphasize types of anesthesia, including conscious sedation; nursing care for adult and pediatric patients in both in-patient and ambulatory settings and prevention of complications for all types of surgical patients.

Objectives:

- Review anesthesia techniques and the complications and outcomes to be expected from each technique
- Review anesthesia drugs, their complications and outcomes
- Explain actions and interactions of selected medications with anesthetic agents
- Discuss nursing implications in caring for the patient intra and immediate post-op, including pain management
- Discuss nursing considerations in caring for patients receiving conscious sedation
- Discuss the nurse's role in managing a patient's airway in the post-anesthesia care unit
- Describe common post-op complications and related nursing implications
- Identify criteria for discharging patients from PACU
- Discuss legal implications to consider in the PACU
- Discuss post-op nursing management of the pediatric patient
- Discuss specific considerations in caring for the anesthetized patient in the ambulatory setting
