

Roadblocks to Wound Healing

SUMMER 2009

Continuing Education

Sicker patients and smaller budgets mean that we must work smarter, not harder, so come and learn how to break through some of the common roadblocks to healing. Joan will discuss diseases, medications, nutritional issues and many more challenges and how to meet each of them so that wound healing can occur in a more timely manner, equating to less money and time spent and less pain and burden to the person with the wound. Some of the newest products for helping us with challenging wounds are not expensive and are very effective. Come and participate as Joan takes you down the road to healing using case studies, the latest research and innovations and definitely a healthy dose of common sense and humor thrown in!

Objectives:

- Analyze intrinsic and extrinsic factors that slow wound healing
- List options for solving each factor that frequently slows or stops wound healing
- Discuss optimal uses of six categories of dressings
- List at least four new products available for helping heal a difficult wound

This workshop is designed for Physical Therapists, Nurses and any health care professional working with patients with wounds.

Monday, Sept. 21, 2009 • 6–9:15 p.m.

3.0 contact hours awarded to nurses. For other health care professionals, check with your licensing agencies to verify that this workshop will count as continuing education in your field. Southeast Community College Continuing Education Division is an approved provider of continuing nursing education by the Nebraska Nurses Association, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center Commission on Accreditation.

Speaker: Joan Junkin is a board-certified, licensed APRN Clinical Nurse Specialist whose Master's degree focus was chronic illness. She has varied experience in her 34 years in nursing, including Med/Surg, ICU, ED, and house supervisor. For the past 15 years she has specialized in wound care and became board certified in wound care in 1997. Her specialty education was through MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, Texas. Joan has a passion for improving the quality of wound care, though she is realistic about shrinking budgets providers have to work with. She provides educational seminars across the nation year round. She presents practical information that can be used in any setting and adds a healthy dose of humor to make the day enjoyable.
