History for Fun: The Gilded Age

This class will examine how the nation, rising from the ashes of the Civil War, dealt with the political and social aspects of immigration, labor and the excessive financial powers of banks and business monopolies. The growing expansion of the nation's economy and rising world influence sets the stage for the Spanish American War in 1898. Plattsouth has its ups and downs, but overall thrives.

History for Fun: The 20th Century Arrives!

The United States becomes a world industrial powerhouse faced with overwhelming growing pains as new technology begins to change the face of America. A central theme will discuss the illustrious President Theodore Roosevelt and the use of his "bully pulpit" to help regulate and curb the excesses of powerful business interest. His high-energy style of leadership pushes the nation into major reform legislation, promotion of national parks and the building of the Panama Canal.

History for Fun: World War I

America struggles to stay neutral, amid business as usual. One Nebraska senator is against war; the other, all for it. British codebreakers and German submarines bring America in. Plattsouth gets the protection of the National Guard. Meanwhile, anti-German sentiment flares up, nationally and locally.
