Nurse Educator Conference 2023

What's All the Buzz?

Core Competencies & Competency-Based Education

This conference will help nurse educators increase their confidence and knowledge related to the new nursing essentials. Nurse educators will become aware of the shift to competence-based education.

Dr. Corbridge will guide participants regarding new nursing essentials implemented in 2021, identifying a shift to competency-based education. Education is needed regarding new nursing essentials and in implementing competency-based education in nursing programs.

This information will assist in providing favorable outcomes in teaching nursing programs.

Southeast Community College Continuing Education is approved as a provider of nursing continuing professional development by Midwest Multistate Division, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.

About the Speakers:

Susan Corbridge, PhD, APRN, FAANP, FCCP, FAAN

Dr. Corbridge is a Chief Essentials Program Officer with AACN. She has formerly served as a Clinical Professor Emerita and Executive Associate Dean. In addition to her faculty and administrative roles, she maintained an active clinical practice as a nurse practitioner for more than two decades. Her areas of expertise include interprofessional practice and education; respiratory health and disease; faculty practice and academic-practice partnerships; nurse practitioner practice; and serving medically underserved, inner-city population. At AACN, Dr. Corbridge oversees all aspects of AACN's work to facilitate the implementation of the new Essentials.

Joan Stanley, PhD

Dr. Stanley has earned national recognition for her work in shaping nursing education programs at the baccalaureate through doctoral levels. She led the development and revision of AACN's landmark Essentials series, which are used by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education and other accrediting bodies. She has led AACN's work on a number of signature initiatives, including the development of the Clinical Nurse Leader role, the advancement of the Doctor of Nursing Practice degree and the creation and implementation of the Consensus Model for APRN Regulation: Licensure, Accreditation, Certification, and Education. A graduate of Duke University (BSN) and the University of Maryland (MS, PhD), she continues to practice as an Adult Nurse Practitioner and author.

Jacqui McMillian-Bohler, PhD

Dr. McMillian-Bohler is an Assistant Clinical Professor at Duke University School of Nursing, she teaches Health Promotion and Perinatal Nursing in the pre-professional and Master's Degree programs. Passionate about teaching and helping others achieve excellence in teaching, her program of research aims to identify how master teachers create powerful learning experiences for students. She has presented nationally, regionally and locally on the subject of faculty development, and has been published on the subjects of inclusive teaching strategies, addressing microaggressions and student engagement. As a certified nurse-midwife, Dr. McMillian-Bohler provided full scope women's health care in Charleston, SC, Nashville, TN, and Louisville, KY. She also is interested in global women's health issues.

At the end of the conference, you will receive an email with a link to complete the online evaluation.

Once completed, you will receive a certificate.

You must log on and be present for the entire conference to receive a certificate for contact hours.
