

Passing the Farm to the Next Generation

Wednesday, Feb. 21 in Beatrice, Hebron, Nebraska City, Wahoo, & York
 Thursday, March 22 in Falls City

As the age of Nebraska's farm and ranch operators continues to trend older, it's important for those operators to have a plan to pass on the family operation. Farm succession and transition plans involve numerous decisions regarding business, family, tax, and legal issues and can often be an overwhelming task for operators. Allan Vyhnalek, extension educator with Nebraska Extension, will lead this two-hour class which focuses on solid communication that is needed to ensure smooth transitions. Participants also will learn about tools and resources available to guide those conversations through each stage of planning for transitioning your operation. The tuition covers up to five people from any single operation, as it is important for all those involved to understand the processes.

*This class will be presented using Distance Learning technology, so participants will have the opportunity to interact with others across a 15-county region. Only one participant needs to complete the registration form and pay tuition. List the number attending (up to five) on registration form. If you register online, email continuinged@southeast.edu the number attending (up to five). Keyword: Farm
