

CHOOSE YOU!

Corrections careers have a variety of roles to suit nearly any personality type and skill set. Some roles focus on keeping correctional facilities orderly and safe, while others are dedicated to rehabilitating offenders mentally, spiritually and even physically.

SCC covers these special challenges involved when working with a wide variety of clients in a community-based corrections setting.

Correctional officers typically enforce rules and keep order within jails, prisons, correctional facilities, and secure health facilities by supervising the activities of clients, inspecting the client and facilities to ensure that they meet security and safety standards.

Correctional services may include encouraging an inmate to seek rehabilitation through educational opportunities and counseling. Service careers range from the courtroom to case management and should consider the safety and welfare of the client and community when connecting people with the resources needed for rehabilitation.

SCC is the Right Choice

- You will learn evidence-based practices from instructors who have extensive education and experience in community-based correctional services, institutional corrections, secure mental health facilities, and juvenile justice agencies.
- You will learn skills such as interviewing and communication, ethics awareness, critical thinking, organizational support, analytical thinking, positive reinforcement techniques, and teamwork.
- Graduates with an Associate of Applied Science degree can start entry-level work right away in a community-based corrections setting.
- This program is offered face-to-face and/or online, giving you the flexibility you need to achieve your goals!
