FRIDAY FORUM
“How beliefs, values, and practices influence cultures and travel”
12 noon to 1 p.m.  Friday, March 6  Room V-104
Description: What influences people from various cultures? How do beliefs, values, and gestures affect perceptions in cultures? How do beliefs, values, and practices impact healthcare in other countries? How can people (students in particular) grow as they experience various issues when traveling abroad? How can travelers learn how to understand and relate to the way things are done in other countries? These panel members have traveled extensively and will share their observations and stories from some of those travel experiences.

Danvas Mabeya, Sociology Instructor, “How people learn in a new culture”
Jill Sand, Dean of Health Sciences, “Learning & Working with Healthcare in a Different Culture”
Joseph Flores, Psychology Instructor, “How Can Students Grow When They Encounter Issues in Different Cultures”
Nicole Trevena-Flores, Social Sciences Program Chair, “How Women and Men Are Viewed in Different Cultures and the Traveler’s Checklist”

This event will be livestreamed and recorded. Bring your own lunch for this forum.
